

JASPAL KAUR PUBLIC SCHOOL

SOCIAL SCIENCE WEEK ACTIVITIES REPORT

2024-2025

The Social Science Week at Jaspal Kaur Public School was a vibrant celebration of learning, creativity, and critical thinking. Held from 27 Nov to 3 Dec 2024 the event aimed to deepen students' understanding of social science concepts while fostering a sense of curiosity and awareness about the world around them. The week featured a series of engaging activities. With enthusiastic contributions from students and teachers, the event served as a platform for showcasing talent, teamwork, and intellectual growth.

Activities-

Class VI- From Cave to Civilization: An Evolutionary Contrast.

Class VII- Medieval Marvels: Exploring Architectural Treasures of India.

Class VIII- Fabrics of Freedom: The Struggle for Independence Through Art.

Class IX- Politoons.

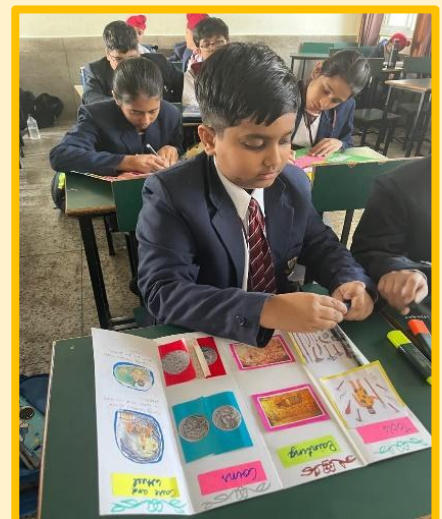

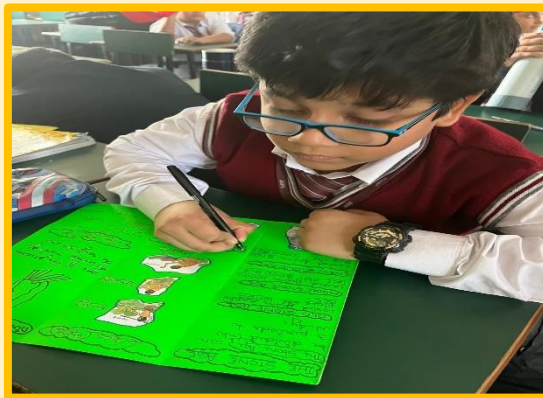

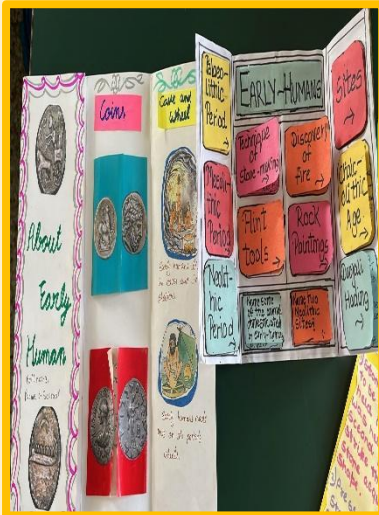

Class X- Rajneeti Ke Rang.

Class VI

- From Cave to Civilization: An Evolutionary Contrast.

To help students understand the evolutionary journey of humanity from prehistoric times to the foundation of modern civilization a creative and engaging lapbook activity took place for the students of class VI. Students showcased their exceptional creativity and analytical skills. Lapbooks were displayed in the classroom, demonstrating a blend of historical understanding and artistic presentation. The activity enhanced their knowledge of human evolution and historical significance.

Class VII

-Medieval Marvels: Exploring Architectural Treasures of India

India is a land of rich heritage. To enhance students' knowledge of India's rich medieval architectural heritage and develop their presentation skills a travel brochure activity was conducted for the students of class VII. In the activity, students selected a medieval monument and conducted detailed research by making a travel brochure on it. The activity provided a platform for students to explore cultural diversity and heritage.

Class VIII

-Fabrics of Freedom: The Struggle for Independence Through Art

The activity for class VIII was an interesting way to educate students about the country's struggle for independence. Through dramatization, they understood the key events, figures, and themes of India's national movements during the colonial period. Students were assigned a specific national movement, such as the Revolt of 1857, the Swadeshi Movement, the Quit India Movement, etc. They were asked to research their assigned movement and dramatize. Students could describe the main events, leaders, and ideologies of various movements.

Class IX

-Politoons-

Class IX students created insightful cartoons illustrating the evolving relationship between voters and political leaders before and after elections. Through humour and creativity, students highlighted key societal issues, fostering critical thinking and awareness about democratic responsibilities and challenges.

Class X - Rajneeti Ke Rang -

Class X students enthusiastically participated in an innovative activity where they designed hypothetical political parties. Each group created a unique party name, symbol, and manifesto addressing pressing societal issues like education, healthcare, and the environment. The students presented their work through speeches and visuals, showcasing creativity, critical thinking, and teamwork. This activity enhanced their understanding of political systems, democratic principles, and the importance of informed leadership.

Students were tasked with forming their political parties and presenting key elements, including:

- ✳ Party Name and Symbol: Each group crafted unique names and symbols, reflecting their party's vision and values.
- ✳ Logo Design: Creativity flowed as students created eye-catching logos that resonated with their ideologies.
- ✳ Campaign Manifesto: Thought-provoking and well-structured manifestos were prepared, focusing on issues like education, healthcare, and environmental conservation.
- ✳ Party Jingle: Students composed and performed lively jingles to capture the essence of their campaigns and engage their audience.

This event left a lasting impression, fostering a deeper appreciation for responsibilities and challenges of governance among the young minds.
